. Username. Password. SOME KNOBS WANT TO KNOW WHY I DIDN'T WEAR A CAP. Or an undershirt. A PRESS KIT? Are you saying you didn't have a press kit? No. You don't understand. I had a press kit. I even had a press kit with a high-end designer – a suit by Armani or Prada. And they gave you the fucking badge? They were given to me by some friends of mine who were on the panel. And then I got there and someone said, “Hey, it's media day,” and I said, “Oh great, let me put on my press kit!” And I put it on and then they said, “Oh, nice press kit, we can't use it, you look too clean-cut, and you don't have a button-down.” And I was so confused, and then someone else said, “I'm sorry, but we can't use it.” And I was like, “Did I just fuck up?” How did you recover? Did you just pack up and go home? I felt like I was getting very little out of the experience, so I packed up and went home. It was definitely an experience I wasn't looking forward to having to deal with again, but unfortunately there wasn't much I could do. Have you ever had a bad experience at Comic-Con? Definitely. I'm a very conservative person, and so I try to be very respectful of these institutions. It's not like the experience has been terrible, but it hasn't been good, either. [Laughs.] SO WHAT'S NEXT FOR YOU? I'm a producer on a television show called Portlandia. They're from Portland, so I live with them and I'm a writer on it as well, so they have a lot of great moments to pull from. I'm going to be a part of a live show as well, and I'm going to be doing a talk show pilot at Upright Citizen's Brigade. They recently brought me over to LA to go through an audition, which was great. So you'
